THE DRIVING FORCE BEHIND THE SEMINOLE HARD ROCK WINTERFEST BOAT PARADE REMINISCES

the many people, Lisa Scott-Founds holds ford memories to its former glory while of the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade. Now the president and CEO of Winterfest. Scott-Founds grew up watching the parade with her family.

"I was the youngest with an older brother and two sisters. The difference in our ages kept us from doing a int of activities together. Winterfest was a tradition see all enjoyed. I remember picnic baskets, blankets, Jawn chairs, Frisbees, lots of laughter, and overall amiles on the shore waiting and watching Winterfest.

"I reflect on these memories when I talk about Winterfest Watching the lights of the parade in a child's eyes tells you why I have the best career. I am surrounded by community leaders committed to continuing the magic."

Scott-Founds has a long history with the event. She joined the parade as a volunteer on the ball committeein 1987. Later, she was hired as the community relations manager for Winterfest in 1994. 'T was with Winterfest for approximately a year when the position opened to be event director. A few members of the board encouraged me to take the position. Talk about old school," she said. "I found my resume minutes before the deadline. I didn't realize anactly what I was sealking into, with this cole. A few years carlier, the passion for the parade," she said.

She brought back Dawn Diehl who had taken a few years off after maternity leave as event director and logistics for the showboats. Another Florida native, Amy Tate, was already an employee when Lisa was hired. This team of three reached out personally to family, friends, and locals to expand the volunteer base to more than 300 parade loving fans. In 2001, Amy moved to Georgia.

"As fate would have it, I received a phone call by the director of the Pompano Parade. We talked about me losing a staff member and she responded, 'why don't you' hire me!' Kathy Keleher was added a month later."

Today, Wasterfest continues as a family-affair with Lisa's husband, brother, sisters, nieces, nephews; Duwn and Kathy's children; children of board members and the neturn of past interns as volumeers for events, dock wulkers, and viewing area volunteers.

*My live of Winterfest is still the driving force in metoday. Under my leadership with chair Mark Swenson, our board of directors and advisers have created subcommittees such as Parade Enhancement to bring new ideas for Wow Entries while encouraging our local boaters to join the parade and create their traditions with family and friends.

"We may be internationally recognized as 'The World's Most Watched Boat Parade,' but its heart are the family entries such as Mr. Bobh, Firmini Twist, Mooncusser, 26 Sailfish, Jenny II, 4 SeaSuns, Felicity, Millie and so many more.

"This year, Winterfest's celebrates 50 years, and we want the entire community to celebrate with us. Boaters' are part of our family. Spectators, our close friends. This year, we have something for everyone including our new viewing area at Las Ofas and the Intracoastal. For more information, visit us online at

Winterfest Boat Parade sails into the holiday season in Fort Lauderdale

BY SHIREEN SANDOVAL, MATTHEW AUERBACH DECEMBER 8, 2021

Share f 🎽

The Winterfest Boat Parade sets sail Saturday night. There's no better way to kick off the South Florida holiday season than to watch all the fabulous-ness float by.

We know of a few watch parties up in Fort Lauderdale, where the views, the food and the drinks are just perfect.

If you want to feel like you're really a part of the Winterfest Boat parade, make it over to Shooter's Waterfront.

Peter Lopez (he's a striaght shooter): "It is the place to be 'cause we've got 340 feet of dock space, so you're gonna get to see the boats the ships move right beside you."

He's not kidding! You're so close to the boats, you're almost in the water.

Shooter's knows how to throw a parade party. They've been at it a while!

Peter Lopez: "Shooter's has been around 39 years, and we've been fortunate enough to grow with the Fort Lauderdale Winterfest Boat Parade."

The parade is a feast for your eyes and ears, but don't worry, you won't go hungry or thirsty.

Peter Lopez: "Not only can you have our famous seafood tower Norme de Mar with stone crabs, shrimp, lobster, oysters, you're also gonna be treated to some filet mignon with crab, with lobster, and it's a beautiful dish to pair with that night with some great wine and champagne. It's the best party in Fort Lauderdale."

When it comes to Winterfest, maybe you'd like to be above it all, no problem.

The Kimpton Goodland Hotel Fort Lauderdale Beach has a special spot picked out just for you.

Trish Pederson (up on the door): "So for the Winterfest Boat parade, they're celebrating their 50th anniversary this year, and we are having a viewing event on our beautiful rooftop."

HOLLYWOOD, FLA. (WSVN) - Winterfest kicked off with a night of fun on Saturday.

Seminole Hard Rock Hotel and Casino celebrated its 50th anniversary for its famous boat parade with a black-tie ball.

The casino was transformed into a winter wonderland as guests got to enjoy special performances.

"We're here to celebrate the holidays. We are kicking off an amazing 50th anniversary for the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade, and we've got about 1,200 people that are coming out, and they're ready to celebrate," said Lisa Scott-Founds, President and CEO of Winterfest. "What better way to celebrate than with the largest boat parade in the world, the largest one-day live spectator event in the entire state of Florida?"

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA. (WSVN) - Following a pandemic pause, the greatest show on H2O made a remarkable return, just in time to mark a big birthday.

The 50th Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade brought in a wave of dazzling decorations to the Intracoastal Waterway this weekend after missing a year due to COVID.

Jennifer Ducan was among the spectators getting ready to watch the festive vessels cruised by in downtown Fort Lauderdale, Saturday evening.

"Everybody is happy that they can be outside and enjoy each other's company, and it's a great start to the holiday season," she said.

Deco's Lynn Martinez got to attend one of the coolest events in Soflo. Winterfest is back, baby, and it's bigger and better than before the pandemic.

Lynn hosted the event's black tie gala over the weekend, and it was frozen fun.

One thing Winterfest enthusiasts know how to do is have a good time.

At this years Winterfest black tie gala — the fanciest of shmanciest Winterfest events at the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel — the theme was from Disney's "Frozen," transforming this gorgeous ballroom into a winter wonderland complete with ice skaters, Ice sculptures and fur.

Lynn Martinez: "What inspired you for this outfit?"

Lisa Scott-Founds, CEO of Winterfest: "Well, the theme was winter wonderland, and I think I did it."

Lynn Martinez: "You did, girl. Spin around!"

The event is a glamorous prelude to the Winterfest Boat Parade on Fort Lauderdale's Intracoastal Waterway, also known as "the biggest show on H2O."

And it's celebrating a big birthday!

Lisa Scott-Founds: "We are kicking off an amazing 50th anniversary for the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade. We've got about 1,200 people that are coming out, and they are ready to celebrate. What better way to celebrate than with the largest boat parade in the world?"

Celebrating with lots of cold bubbly, everyone also got to do a little shopping at the silent auction.

Susan Renneisen, Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino: "So excited to have everyone back here. This is the first time in our very new ballroom, our beautiful chandeliers. We are always very lucky with our themes with Winterfest."

Local designer Zola Keller made her gown to highlight the feather trend.

Zola Keller: "Velvet and feathers, so 'in' right now on the runway, feathers and velvet, so I said, 'I'm gonna make one,' and so I did."

She also made my gorgeous beaded dress.

Topping off all this glam: a "Frozen" performance by Broadway Across America.

Boat decorator comes out of retirement for 50th Winterfest Boat Parade

BY VANESSA MEDINA DECEMBER 7, 2021

NEWS

A 48-foot sea ride is getting all dressed up for the holidays, as a self-described "Winterfest maniac" gets the vessel ready to set sail this weekend on a special anniversary.

Speaking with 7News on Tuesday, boat decorator Cookie Marovich pointed out the significance of this year's Seminole Hard Rick Winterfest Boat Parade.

"It's the 50th anniversary for the Hard Rock, and it's the 50th anniversary for Winterfest, so it's the golden anniversary, so hence, our boat has a lot of gold on it," she said.

This boat's theme is "We Will Rock You." It's pretty difficult to miss.

Inshore Marine Specialties - Located in Oakland Park, FL

We Have over 20 Years of Experience in the Marine Industry. inshoremarinespecialties.com

Once finished, the vessel will have 30,000 lights, over 100 lights on each note alone.

"[I look forward to] seeing the crowds go crazy over your boat when your boat goes by, and you've got a great siren song, and you can raise everybody off their feet on the sidelines," she said. "Winterfest is the biggest event in Florida, and the parade is magnificent."

Marovich is a boat decorating professional.

"This was 'Christmas Under the Sea,' and I had bubble machines, I had mermaids. This was my last boat that I did; our theme song was 'It's Raining Men,'" she said. "I had gingerbread men on light synchronizers falling from the tuna tower."

She decorated and competed for years, then went into retirement for 18 years.

That was, until her friend Victor Bruzzone asked for help as a first-time participant.

"It was always a dream to be in it. I didn't even know that there was a competition, I just found out now," said Bruzzone, "so now were hoping to win, but for me it's all about being in it."

"It's something I've really missed. I went into mourning for 18 years over the boat parade. Watching it broke my heart," said Marovich, "so now I'm back in it and happy again."

The rite of holiday passage, when hundreds of extravagantly lighted boats and yachts set sail through South Florida's charming waterways, is almost upon us.

There is plenty to celebrate in 2021 with Seminole Hard Rock's Winterfest Boat Parade turning 50 and, in general, cheering on all the holiday events that are back this year.

For the best spots to see the pomp and circumstance, or where to avoid driving because you can't get over drawbridges, check out our list below. Delray Beach and Boynton Beach Holiday Boat Parade, Dec. 10

Costumed captains and 35 holiday themed boats will take part in the 49th annual Boynton Beach and Delray Beach holiday boat parade.

The event begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Ocean Avenue Bridge in Lantana and travels south to the area of the Linton Boulevard Bridge in Delray Beach.

The Boynton Harbor Marina, located at 735 Casa Loma Blvd., serves as the official watch location Celebrating 50 years of Hard Rockin' fun is the theme this year of Broward County's biggest boat parade. Holiday-loving spectators will watch as show boats, private boats and mega yachts dazzle a 12-mile span of South Florida waterways.

The parade starts at Stranahan House in Fort Lauderdale, traveling east along the New River to the Intracoastal Waterway and continuing north to Lake Santa Barbara in Pompano Beach. The parade takes approximately 2 ½ hours. A

Fort Lauderdale Winterfest Boat Parade

When it comes to the Winterfest Boat Parade in Fort Lauderdale, there's only two criteria: can you put lights on it and can it float? If both answers are yes, chances are you will see it amongst the armada of decked-out holiday watercraft as they cruise the intracoastal. In its 50th year, the Boat Parade has become a South Florida staple as guests eagerly await the illumination of Fort Lauderdale's scenic waterways. Intracoastal Waterway from Fort Lauderdale to Pompano Beach, @winterfestboatparade winterfestboatparade 885 followers

Lopez to marshall Winterfest

Multitalented star shares insights on family, career

By Arlene Borenstein-Zuluaga South Florida Sun Sentinel

For some of us, dazzling mega yachts dressed in neon holiday lights are no competition for the twinkling smile and money-making dimples of this year's grand marshal of the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade. Mario Lopez.

The two-time Emmy-winning television host has paved a path of success from his days as it-he's-done-it list of accomplishments from Broadway, to the big screen, books, merchandise lines and YouTube - to skim the surface. These days he can be seen weekdays co-hosting the syndicated "Access Hollywood," is reprising his role as a grown-up A.C. on a "Saved By the Bell" reboot and has a new holiday movie debuting Friday on Lifetime.

His gig this weekend will help celebrate a milestone in South Florida, the 50th anniversary of the parade that lights up Fort Lauderdale's charming waterways for the holidays.

Here's what he had to say about coming to South Florida, his career and being a dad.

Q: Tell us about coming to South Florida as grand marshal for the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade's 50th year.

Turn to Lopez, Page 8

A. "I was familiar with the narada I know that radition

Q. Where are you going to eat while you are here? A. "The last thing I want to get is tacos because I eat that all the time here in L.A. When I am in Fort Lauderdale I always go to my boy about as good as it gets."

Steve Matarano's place, Cafe Matarano, which is the best Italian food, I love it, and I love that he DJs and cooks at the same time. It's such a fun atmosphere ... I order everything"

Q. You've paved an incredible path for yourself since "Saved by the Bell." What is your strategy? A. "I think my approach has always been that there are no rules in the entertainment industry so why not host and act and sing and dance and produce and do Broadway ... I wanted to always try to keep as busy as possible to create more opportunities for myself, for my family, for my friends, for Latinos."

Q. Tell us about your holiday movie out now?

A. "It's called 'Holiday in Santa Fe' ... on Lifetime. Our daughter steals the film, she's the real star there, Gia. She's 10 years old, and she did a great, great job. It's got a lot of warmth about this family. It's an all Latino cast, which is great, but we are not hitting you over the head with a tortilla, as I like to say. It focuses on Santa Fe, New Mexico, where it takes place. Not your typical New England sort of town. It's a nightlife. South Florida is career and family? A. "You've got to really make your priorities clear. For me, my family is No. 1, and that's the reason I work so hard. I'm really lucky I got an incredible wife and she holds down the fort and is very understanding of my fluid schedule. She's a great mom and does a great job with my kids. I think, no matter what, you've got to always keep in mind what you are doing it for ... I'm lucky enough to have breakfast with my kids and come home in time to have dinner."

Q. What type of work do you like the most?

"I like them all, but hosting comes the most natural just because I like to make sure people have a good time and I get to be myself." The Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade launches at 6:30 p.m. Saturday on the New River in downtown Fort Lauderdale. A new ticketed viewing area is at Las Olas Intracoastal Promenade Park, on the south side of the East Las Olas Boulevard bridge. Gates open at 4 p.m. The viewing area includes family activities (no pets allowed), live entertainment, and food and drink for purchase. Tickets cost $25, $15 ages 10 and younger. Seating is first come, first served.

Six tips for enjoying fun, safe holiday boat parade

Location:

Section:

Kayword:

Special to Fort Myers News-Press

USA TODAY NETWORK - FLORIDA

Whether you're a spectator or a participant, nighttime boat parades featuring festive lights and creative boat and yacht displays can be one of the most fun and memorable traditions of the entire holiday season. From the Fort Lauderdale, Florida Winterfest Boat Parade, to Cape Coral's Holiday Boat-A-Long, scores of cities and towns light up the skies with dazzling Christmas-themed, floating showstoppers. Spectators can find a state-by state listing of local boat show dates and times by visiting the Discover Boating website at https:// www.discoverboating.com/resources/holidayboat-parades/calendar.

For parade participants, however, evening boat outings require special safety considerations. The Water Sports Foundation encourages boaters to plan ahead to stay safe as they participate in holiday boat parades by following these six safety tips.

1 Suit Up Like Santa: Wear Your Life Jacket! Drowning is the cause of death in 79 percent of fatal boating accidents where the cause of death was known; 86 percent of those drowning victims were not wearing life jackets. With parade participants often actively engaged in onboard movement and dance step routines, it's important to be well prepared and suited up for safety. Boaters should all don U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets that are sized to fit: Choosing the Right Life Jacket - Water Sports Foundation. The great news is that there are many attractive styles and more streamlined designs now available for boating activities including new lightweight inflatables. Check your state law for mandates regarding life jacket usage and age requirements for children: NASBLA Life Jacket Requirements by State and Age.

2 Gear Up! Make sure all required boating safety gear is ready, functional and easily accessible. While signaling devices may already be tucked into your gear bag, consider a small, waterproof clip-on strobe light available from most marine stores that can be attached to your life ber, children lose body heat faster than adults, so bring extra layers of clothing in a waterproof dry bag, along with towels and blankets in case they are needed.

4 Always Designate a Sober Skipper. When it comes to holiday cheer, boaters need to be extra vigilant and understand the serious dangers and consequences associated with drinking and driving, which is compounded when navigating at night. The Water Sports Foundation recommends that boaters avoid impairment. If drinking is allowed by parade organizers, however, every boat should designate a sober skipper, a trained and experienced captain who agrees not to imbibe while operating the craft. Crew should be cautioned to avoid or at the least, minimize alcohol consumption to keep their wits about them while underway and onboard.

5 Learn the Parade Route in Advance. Most boat parade organizers provide a map of the parade route. Review the dock area along with the route and if possible, run your boat through the course in the daylight to spot any obstacles or challenges that may be harder to see with limited visibility.

6 Charge Your Batteries. Holiday boat parades mean colorful lights, music and lots of potential drain to your batteries. Make sure your boat batteries are fully charged and capable of handling the extra power demand associated with accessories like lights and stereo. Consider using LED decorative lights which use less electrical power, or a longer-lasting lithium-ion battery that is separate from your engine starting battery.

"We love holiday boat parades ... they historically are great fun and extremely popular in boating communities across the nation," said Water Sports Foundation Executive Director Jim Emmons. "By ensuring all your safety gear is aboard and in working order and adhering to a few simple boating safety practices, participants can maximize their boating fun and enjoy a great tradition with family and friends."

Just a few years after its debut. Fort Lauderdale's wholesome new holiday celebration called Winterfest was flickering in the homes of 42 million viewers as the setting for Bob Hope's celebrity-packed 1987 NBC Christmas special, its star strolling a snowy Las Olas Boulevard singing "Silver Bells" with Reba McEntire.

It was a tourism coup for a city eager to extinguish its rowdy Spring Break reputation. But like many important chapters in Fort Lauderdale history, it can thank beer.

On Saturday, the Seminole Hard

Rock Winterfest Boat Parade returns from 2020%s virtual version with a 50th anniversary celebration of the event that started it all in 1971, more than a decade before Winterfest even existed: Fort Lauderdale's first official boat parade. Which may be a charitable way to describe its maiden voyage.

"A bunch of guys got out, drank a lot of beer, put up a few lights, and that was the boat parade, OK?" says Winterfest veteran Ina Lee of the group led by Kaye Pearson, future architect of the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show, "Over time it kind of grew,"

This weekend's parade of wildly decorated watercraft will feature 125 official entrants of all shapes and sizes, set to begin moving on the New River in downtown Fort Lauderdale toward the Intracoastal Waterway at about 6:30 p.m. The grand marshal of this year's parade is Mario Lopez, the former "Saved by the Bell" star currently seen as a host of "Access Hollywood."

Lee created Winterfest in 1983 as an umbrella organization for rants along the route, and it is free to enjoy for anyone who can put down a blanket by the water. "My favorite thing about the boat parade? It makes people happy," Lee says.

There is a ticketed viewing area for the parade, and one major change for this year's event is the move of those spectator bleachers from Hugh Taylor Birch State Park to Las Olas Intracoastal Promenade Park, at 80 Las Olas Circle. on the south side of the East Las Olas Boulevard bridge.

Gates open at 4 p.m. Saturday, with the parade beginning to arrive at the park about 7 p.m. The viewing area includes family activities (no pets allowed), live entertainment, and food and drink for purchase. Tickets cost $25, $15 ages 10 and younger. Seating is first come, first served. Visit WinterfestParade.com.

Winterfest Boat Parade Makes Waves

Lisa Scott Founds, president and CEO of Winterfest, catches us up on the December 11 boat parade's return to the waterways

By Melissa Puppo - December 9, 2021

Lisa Scott Founds

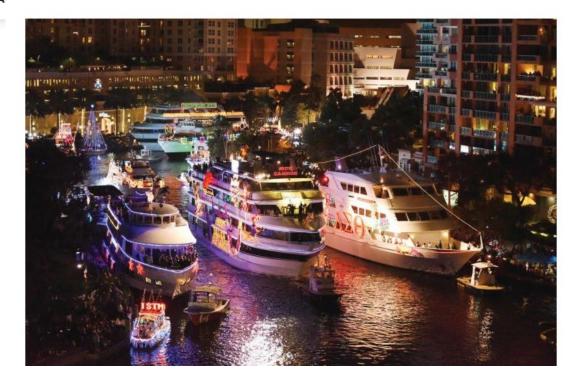

After a year's hiatus due to the pandemic, the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade makes its return this December 11, promising a dynamic program and new surprises. In honor of the "Best Show on H2O" and its fiftieth anniversary, FLI caught up with Lisa Scott Founds, who has helmed the organization for 25 years, to discuss her favorite moments and what to expect this year.

FLI: What's your earliest memory of the parade?

Scott Founds: I can remember attending the first one going down and taking a blanket [with family]. We would go every year following. We'd watch all the decorated boats. It wasn't like a parade back in the day, more just a gathering

Tell us about this year's theme.

The theme is "50 years of Hardrockin' Fun." We're focusing on breaking it out into decades and the significant visuals or thoughts that identify with a certain decade. It can be anything fun: a band, a play, a singer, a movie—anything that really stuck out to that person who's putting together the boat.

What's one boat to look out for?

The octopus boat. We're doing some techy things we've never done before. Part of our board of 50 has encouraged Winterfest to enhance boats in the parade. We're going to transform a water taxi into an under-the-sea environment, so the octopus is giving the boat a gigantic hug with dancing starfish, [and there will be] a giant clam that's going to have a singer very similar to an Ariel. Probably one of the most vibrant entries we'll have because it's neon in color.

POETRY SLAM

Poet Shay Richardson (aka Eccentrich) founded the Pompano Beach Exit 36 Slam Poetry Festival in 2018. Taking place December 9-11 at various cultural venues including the Pompano Beach Cultural Center, the event will welcome poets from across the country. Actor and poet Malcolm-Jamal Warner (of The Cosby Show and current hit The Resident) will be a quest judge and will also perform and deliver an artist talk. "I was born and raised here, so it was very important to me that I leave something with my city," says Richardson. "[Slam poetry] is important because everybody deserves to tell their story and experiences, and spoken word allows one to do so without judgment or refute." (pompanobeacharts.org/exit36)

For some of us, dazzling mega yachts dressed in neon holiday lights are no competition for the twinkling smile and money-making dimples of this year's grand marshal of the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade, Mario Lopez.

The two-time Emmy-winning television host of has paved a path of success from his days as A.C. Slater on "Saved by the Bell" with a you-name-it-he's-done-it list of accomplishments from Broadway, to the big screen, books, merchandise lines and YouTube - to skim the surface. These days he can be seen weekdays co-hosting the syndicated "Access Hollywood," is reprising his role as a grown-up A.C. on a "Saved By the Bell" reboot and has a new holiday movie debuting Friday on Lifetime.

Q: Tell us about coming to South Florida as grand marshal for the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade's 50th year.

A. "I was familiar with the parade. I know the tradition. I'm honored and flattered that I got asked to be a part of it ... part of history so that's why I said yes. I love all the culture and the different flavors and ethnicities that are there, the music, the nightlife. South Florida is about as good as it gets."

The Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade launches at 6:30 p.m. Saturday on the New River in downtown Fort Lauderdale. A new ticketed viewing area is at Las Olas Intracoastal Promenade Park, on the south side of the East Las Olas Boulevard bridge. Gates open at 4 p.m. The viewing area includes family activities (no pets allowed), live entertainment, and food and drink for purchase. Tickets cost $25, $15 ages 10 and younger. Marty Kiar, property appraiser, Broward County Last week: The "Best Show on H2O" was held this past weekend. Dating back to 1955, the boat parade is synonymous with the holiday season in South Florida. With over 1 million spectators along the 12-mile route, the Winterfest Boat Parade is the largest, one-day, live audience event in Florida. This unique event has an annual economic impact on Broward County of more than $50 million. Actor Mario Lopez was this year's grand marshal, and the parade was a stellar success, highlighting our waterways, beautiful weather, and our incredible Broward County community.

Last week: Time Magazine has named Elon Musk as its 2021 Person of the Year. Musk was selected from a group of global luminaries due to his visionary thinking to advance humankind.

Some notable feats include making space exploration cheaper through SpaceX, harnessing the power of renewable energy with Tesla electric vehicles, and The Boring Company, his latest venture, is revolutionizing how cities can solve their traffic tie-ups. We hope to bring his innovation of the Boring Co.'s tunnels to bear for our traffic issues. We can't solve tomorrow's problems using the old methods of the past.

Looking ahead: On behalf of the Fort Lauderdale City Commission, I want to wish you and yours a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year! After last year's pause from the usual Fort Lauderdale holiday traditions due to the pandemic, this holiday season was packed with events for all of Fort Lauderdale to enjoy. From our six city-wide "Holiday Light Ups" to the 50th anniversary of Winterfest, along with the many toy drives and grocery giveaways, the unity of the Fort Lauderdale community has never been stronger. I especially want to acknowledge the valiant work of our first responders, EMS, police, fire and doctors and nurses. Thank you for your dedicated service each day.

The Fort Lauderdale Christmas Boat Parade was started in 1971 by Kaye Pearson (a force behind the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show) based on a group of friends that had their own parade to kickoff the holiday season. The event was, undoubtedly, a lot of fun in those early days because it continued on and became an annual tradition.

In 1982, Broward's Tourist Development Council provided $8,000 to fund the parade, and Ina Lee, owner of TravelHost Magazine, became the first president, CEO, and chairperson of Winterfest. Under Lee's leadership, Winterfest expanded with more events to extend the holiday

Today Show meteorologist Willard Scott was the parade's first "official" Grand Marshal. The Winterfest Black Tie Ball joined the celebratory events in 1985 at the Fort Lauderdale Marriott Harbor Beach Resort & Spa.

The parade continued to rise in popularity, and grandstands were installed at Birch State Park that held 3,000 attendees. By 1986, 50 events were on the Winterfest calendar. From pop/soul groups like the Commodores and the Four Tops to a who's who of Grand Marshals, such as Dan Marino, Regis and Kathie Lee, Donald Trump, Shaquille O'Neal, and Pitbull, to corporate sponsorship, Winterfest was named the 20th Best Parade in the World in 1999 and 10° in 2015. Continental Airlines was the first title sponsor of the parade in 1994, and since 2004, it has been sponsored by the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino.

For the Boat Parade, it's been half a century of lighting up Lauderdale's waterways - and image

By Greg Carannante

Tifty Christmases ago, when a little caravan of beaters decorated their boats and set off up the Intracoustal, they couldn't have known they were hautching an annual holiday tradition that would eventually become "the world's most-watched boat parade" - as well as the family-friendly counterbalance to Fort Landerdale's reputation as the capital of Spring Break debauchery.

Beginning near the 17th Street Causeway and cruising up to Las Olas Boulevard, that little cruise has of course, grown into the Seminoli Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade, one of the largest one-day outdoor events in the country: After last year's Covid cancellation, on Dec. 11 the parade will once again have the New River and Intracoastal shimmering with over 100 wessels from sailboats to showboats and kayaks to megapachts, all done up in radiant holiday regalia and viewed by about a million people along a 12-mile route from downtown Lauderdale to Pompuno Beach.

Lise Scott-Founds

Scott-Founds, who turns 58 in December, was 8 years old when she saw her first boat parade. "My mom found out about it through her friends. I remember taking the blanket to the end of one of the streets in Rio Vista and making little sandwiches and getting ready for something that weld never done before. It was a highlight of my young childhood and ever since then I made sure to watch every parade. It was such a tradition for us. It brought our family together."

What she remembers most from those early parades is "the beauty of the camaraderic, the beauty of celebrating and the ave of the decorations, Back then it was all about Christmas. Here we lived

Season's Greetings

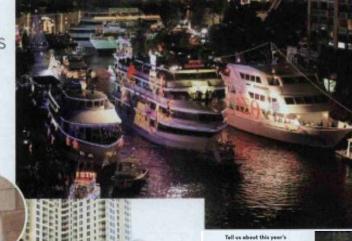

After a year's hiatus due to the pandemic, the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade makes its return this December 11, promising a dynamic program and new surprises. In honor of the "Best Show on H2O" and its fiftieth anniversary, FLI caught up with Lisa Scott Founds, who has helmed the organization for 25 years, to discuss her favorite moments and what to expect this year. (winterfestparade.com)

FLI: What's your earliest memory of the parade?

Scott Founds: I can remember ottending the first one-going down and taking a blanket [with family]. We would go every year following. We'd watch all the decorated boats. It wasn't like a parade back in the day, more just a gathering and very organic.

Tell us about this year's theme.

The theme is "50 years of Hardrockin' Fun." We're focusing on breaking it out into decades and the significant visuals or thoughts that identify with a certain decade. It can be anything fun- a band, a play, a singer, a movie-prything that really stuck out to that person who's putting together the boat.

he "Best Show on H₂O" has been lighting up the waterways of South Florida for years, and 2021 celebrates the Winterfest Boat Parade's 50th anniversary. The Fort Lauderdale Christmas Boat Parade was started in 1971 by Kaye Pearson (a force behind the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show) based on a group of friends that had their own parade to kickoff the holiday season. The event was, undoubtedly, a lot of fun in those early days because it continued on and became an annual tradition

n 1982, Broward's Tourist Development uncil provided $8,000 to fund the parade, I Ina Lee, owner of TravelHost Magazine, ame the first president, CEO, and chairperson Winterfest. Under Lee's leadership, Winterfest anded with more events to extend the holiday bration, including the Winterfest Black Tie l and the Winterfest Beach Ball. The first themed parade was held in 1983, en boats added props to portray "A Tropical stasy." The inaugural Beach Ball in 1984. inded by about 100,000 people on Fort iderdale Beach, highlighted the jazz fusion up Spyro Gyra. That same year, NBC's

Today Show meteorologist Willard Scott was the parade's first "official" Grand Marshal. The Winterfest Black Tie Ball joined the celebratory events in 1985 at the Fort Lauderdale Marriott Harbor Beach Resort & Spa.

The parade continued to rise in popularity, and grandstands were installed at Birch State Park that held 3,000 attendees. By 1986, 50 events were on the Winterfest calendar. From pop/soul groups like the Commodores and the Four Tops to a who's who of Grand Marshals, such as Dan Marino, Regis and Kathie Lee, Donald Trump, Shaquille O'Neal, and Pitbull, to corporate sponsorship, Winterfest was named the 20th Best Parade in the World in 1999 and 10th in 2015. Continental Airlines was the first title sponsor of the parade in 1994, and since 2004, it has been sponsored by the Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino.

There is so much history with the parade over the last 50 years, but it all comes from one thing: hard work from dedicated people with the holiday spirit. Even if you only make it along the parade route to watch the boats, it's just enough to encourage a smile or two and, hopefully, give a sense of joy to all who see those beautifully lighted boats float by, winterfestparade.com 2

FOND FAMILY MEMORIES

ike many people, Lisa Scott-Founds holds fond memories to its former glory while of the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade. Now the president and CEO of Winterfest, Scott-

Founds grew up watching the parade with her family. "I was the youngest with an older brother and two sisters. The difference in our ages kept us from doing a lot of activities together, Winterfest was a tradition we all enjoyed. I remember picnic baskets, blankets, laten chairs, Frisbees, lots of laughter, and overall smiles on the shore waiting and watching Winterfest. "I reflect on these memories when I talk about Winterfest. Watching the lights of the parade in a child's eyes tells you why I have the best career. I am surrounded by community leaders committed to continuing the magic."

Scott-Founds has a long history with the event. She joined the parade as a volunteer on the ball committee in 1987. Later, she was hired as the community relations manager for Winterfest in 1994. "I was with Winterfest for approximately a year when the position opened to be event director. A few members of the board encouraged me to take the position. Talk about old school," she said. "I faxed my resume minutes before the deadline. I didn't realize exactly what I was walking into, with this role. A few years earlier, the ensuring the organization's funding was healthy.

"I surrounded myself with people that have the same passion for the parade," she said.

She brought back Dawn Diehl who had taken a few years off after maternity leave as event director and logistics for the showboats. Another Florida native, Amy Tate, was already an employee when Lisa was hired. This team of three reached out personally to family, friends, and locals to expand the volunteer base to more than 300 parade loving fans. In 2001, Amy moved to Georgia.

"As fate would have it, I received a phone call by the director of the Pompano Parade. We talked about me losing a staff member and she responded, 'why don't you hire me?' Kathy Keleher was added a month later."

Today, Winterfest continues as a family-affair with Lisa's husband, brother, sisters, nieces, nephews; Duwn and Kathy's children; children of board members and the return of past interns as volunteers for events, dock walkers, and viewing area volunteers.

"My love of Winterfest is still the driving force in me today. Under my leadership with chair Mark Swenson. our board of directors and advisers have created subcommittees such as Parade Enhancement to bring new ideas for Wow Entries while encouraging our local boaters to join the parade and create their traditions with family and friends.

"We may be internationally recognized as 'The World's Most Watched Boat Parade,' but its heart are the family entries such as Mr. Bobh, Birnini Twist, Mooncusser, 26 Sailfish, Jenny II, 4 SeaSuns, Felicity, Millie and so many more.

"This year, Winterfest's celebrates 50 years, and we want the entire community to celebrate with us. Boaters are part of our family. Spectators, our close friends. This year, we have something for everyone including our new viewing area at Las Olas and the Intracoustal. For more information, visit us online at

The start of the weekend promises no major change as South Florida will continue to experience unseasonably warm conditions. After starting off with some fog, we can expect a mix of sun and clouds this afternoon while our afternoon high temperatures remain in the 80s. Other than a spotty shower or two, today should be mainly dry across south Florida. Perfect conditions continue into this evening just in time for the Winterfest Boat Parade!

The casino was transformed into a winter wonderland as guests got to enjoy special performances.

"We're here to celebrate the holidays. We are kicking off an amazing 50th anniversary for the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade, and we've got about 1,200 people that are coming out, and they're ready to celebrate," said Lisa Scott-Founds, President and CEO of Winterfest. "What better way to celebrate than with the largest boat parade in the world, the largest one-day live spectator event in the entire state of Florida?"

My 8 Favorite Places In Florida To Experience Christmas Lights

8. Christmas Boat Parades

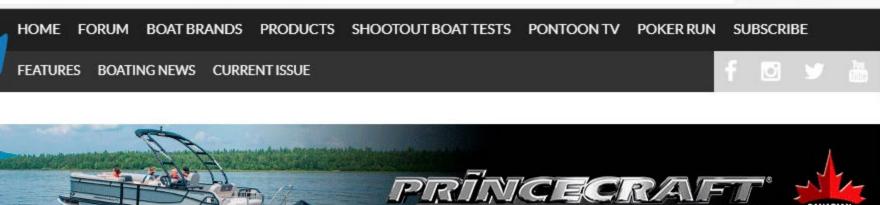

It's exhilarating watching a slow parade of boats, all decked out in twinkling lights and decorations, make their way down any waterway. The lights reflecting off the water, Santa and his elves waving ... for water lovers across the globe, the holidays signal the time-honored tradition of a Christmas boat parade!

In Florida, the mack daddy of all Christmas boat parades is in Fort Lauderdale. Appropriately named the Venice of America, Fort Lauderdale has almost as many waterways as it does roads. The Fort Lauderdale Winterfest Boat Parade draws all types and categories of watercraft, from small private boats to mega-yachts. Some vessels will have music, lights, entertainment, decorations, musical groups, and celebrities.

This year, the Fort Lauderdale Winterfest Boat Parade's route begins at the Stranahan House, then heads east down the New River to the Intracoastal Waterway. From there, it heads north to Lake Santa Barbara in Pompano Beach.

Pro Tip: Drawbridges close to traffic for hours to allow boats to pass. If you need to cross a bridge, you need a plan. Also, this year's event is estimated to have over one million spectators.

With so many choices of fantastic Christmas light displays throughout the Sunshine State, you'll find yourself returning year after year to celebrate the holidays with a tropical vibe. Florida is a fabulous destination choice for multigenerational families who are looking for options for the entire family during the Christmas holiday season.

Splash and sparkle: Holiday boat parades are ready to light up the nights

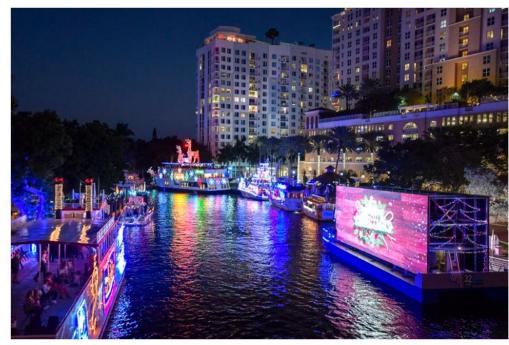

By ARLENE BORENSTEIN-ZULUAGA SOUTH FLORIDA SUN SENTINEL | NOV 26, 2021 AT 7:00 AM

The rite of holiday passage, when hundreds of extravagantly lighted boats and yachts set sail through South Florida's charming waterways, is almost upon us.

There is plenty to celebrate in 2021 with Seminole Hard Rock's Winterfest Boat Parade turning 50 and, in general, cheering on all the holiday events that are back this year.

Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade, Dec. 11

Celebrating 50 years of Hard Rockin' fun is the theme this year of Broward County's biggest boat parade. Holiday-loving spectators will watch as show boats, private boats and mega yachts dazzle a 12-mile span of South Florida waterways.

The parade starts at Stranahan House in Fort Lauderdale, traveling east along the New River to the Intracoastal Waterway and continuing north to Lake Santa Barbara in Pompano Beach. The parade takes approximately 2 1/2 hours. A pre-show of non-motorized vessels start at 6 p.m. while the larger holiday-lit vessels kick off at 6:30 p.m.

Ft. Lauderdale's Winterfest Boat Parade Returns For 50th Anniversary

By Wendi Grossman Dec 10, 2021

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas in Ft. Lauderdale. A million spectators expected to be on hand to watch the Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade returning to Ft. Lauderdale for it's 50th anniversary Saturday. Mayor Dean Trantalis says it's especially special this year-since the parade went viral in the pandemic last year. and he says parade goers need to remember new normal guidelines. Private boats to the giant showboats and corporate mega yachts will be decked out with hundreds of thousands of lights and decorations. The Parade starts at Stranahan House traveling East along the New River to the Intracoastal Waterway as it continues North to Lake Santa Barbara in Pompano Beach.

Winterfest Turns 50

The beloved boat parade in Fort Lauderdale embarks on a golden anniversary season

It's been more than 26 years since Lisa Scott-Founds (pictured, below) stepped into her first board meeting as president and CEO of Winterfest. Though the boat parade and its surrounding festivities had become a staple of the holiday season in and around Broward County, the event didn't seem to be making the kinds of waves that the Fort Lauderdale native felt it could and should.

True, there had been noteworthy associations over the years.

Weatherman Willard Scott, the first official grand marshal in 1984, chatted up Winterfest on NBC's Today show. Bob Hope hosted a Christmas special from Winterfest in 1987, with guest stars Tony Randall and Brooke Shields, that drew an estimated TV audience of 42 million. And in 1990 (and for a few years to come), the event aligned itself with a postseason college football game—the Blockbuster Bowl, later the Carquest Bowl. It even changed its name to the Sunshine Festival around that time for a blink-and-you'll-miss-it period.

Along the way, celebrities including Joan Rivers, Regis Philbin, George Hamilton, and Mickey and Minnie Mouse all served as grand marshals. But even with star sightings and bowl buzz in the air, something was missing on the ground."I remember walking into that first board meeting, and only 23 people showed up out of 50 board members," Scott-Founds says. "I thought that was pretty sad. That year, we had like 43 boats [the parade accommodates more than twice as many]. It all felt small.

"We decided then to go back and focus on the parade, our signature event. We also started focusing on those who cared to make a difference, who had real passion for this event that brings together so many people."

A quarter-century later, that groundwork continues to pay dividends. Despite the choppy waters created by the COVID-19 pandemic, Winterfest is sailing into its 50th anniversary year with the full embrace of the community and its institutions—not to mention some 100 wildly decorated showboats and yachts along the parade route.

It's estimated that the parade and the series of events that precede it (which started in late October) contribute more than $50 million to the area economy. A local newspaper story once noted that certain Publix stores around the viewing areas enjoy their biggest deli sales of the year on parade night, even more than on Thanksgiving or Christmas.

In addition to the longtime contributions of fellow full-timers Dawn Read Diehl (event director) and Kathleen Keleher (marketing and parade director)—who have been with Winterfest for 30 years and 20 years, respectively—Scott-Founds relies on more than 350 volunteers to bring the various festivities to life. Not to mention a decade-long association with board member Lee Rosbach, the official captain of Winterfest and star of Bravo's Below Deck. "And, we still have our 50 board members," Scott-Founds says, "but all 50 are so involved. Plus, we have another 40 advisory board members that provide input and [serve as] ambassadors."

Asked about when and how Winterfest reached the next-level status it occupies now, Scott-Founds points to the chairman of Hard Rock International, Jim Allen, and the decision of Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino to become title sponsor.

"He's such a visionary," Scott-Founds says of Allen and the Hard Rock's nearly two-decade association with Winterfest. "From the beginning, Hard Rock has put their heart and soul into Winterfest."

Scott-Founds credits Allen with helping Winterfest navigate the logistics of moving the boat parade's route in 2007; after starting for decades in Port Everglades, the "Best Show on H20" began launching that year at Stranahan House, traveling east along the New River for 12 miles. More recently, the launch of the Guitar Hotel at Seminole Hard Rock in Hollywood, and all the excitement surrounding the brand, has been a perfect complement to Winterfest's own glitz, glarn, and emphasis on entertainment.

"To be able to survive 50 years, and continue to grow, it's incredible," Scott-Founds says. "We've had a chance the past two years to learn more about the history by talking to people who were sponsors and participants in the beginning. You realize that Winterfest has a life of its own. I always say we're like the Macy's [Thanksgiving] Day Parade—on water.

"We're so fortunate to be able to bring this event to South Florida."

SHOWTIME

Season's Greetings

After a year's hiatus due to the pandemic the Seminole Hard Rock Winterfest Boat Parade makes its return this December 11, promising a dynamic program and new surprises. In honor of the "Best Show on H2O" and its fiftieth anniversary, FLI caught up with Lisa Scott Founds, who has helmed the organization for 25 years, to discuss her favorite moments and what to expect this year. (winterfestparade.com)

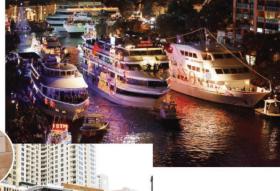

FLI: What's your earliest memory of the parade? Scott Founds: I can remember attending the first one-going down and taking a blanket [with family]. We would go every year following. We'd watch all the decorated boats. It wasn't like a parade back in the day, more just a gathering and very organic.

Tell us about this year's theme.

The theme is "50 years of Hardrockin' Fun." We're focusing on breaking it out into decades and the significant visuals or thoughts that identify with a certain decade. It can be anything fun: a band, a play, a singer, a movie-anything that really stuck out to that person who's putting together the boat.

What's one boat to look out for? The octopus boat. We're doing some techy things we've never done before. Part of ou board of 50 has encouraged Winterfest to enhance boats in the parade. We're going to under-the-sea environment, so the octopus is giving the boat a gigantic hug with dancing starfish, [and there will be] a giant clam that's going to have a singer very similar to an Ariel. Probably one of the most vibrant entries we'll have transform a water taxi into an because it's neon in color
